

LOOK AT THESE SITUATIONS. YOU FIRST SAW SOMETHING SIMILAR IN THE 'SPARK' SESSION. CHOOSE TWO OR THREE AND REFLECT ON THEM. THEN DEFINE HOW YOU MIGHT NOW RESPOND TO THE OTHER SPEAKERS OR SCENARIOS. TRY TO USE EXPRESSIONS OR REASONING YOU'VE LEARNED IN THIS LESSON.

Situation	My Response (and possible advice)
My colleague is always interrupting me with questions related to the point I'm trying to make.
I've got a lot of information that I'd like to share. I'd like to say something at the beginning of my talk to manage my audience.
My colleagues never interrupt me. I'm used to being interrupted and having people play the devil's advocate *; sometimes I wonder if they're just being polite or aren't even invested in what we're working on!
Some of my colleagues are from locations that are vibrant and very participative! I know they're passionate, but they interrupt so often!
Sometimes colleagues talk about side issues to expand the topic. When I've asked them to wait till I'm finished, they go silent.
One colleague always interrupts and is not polite about it. In fact, they can be quite rude!

DEVIL'S ADVOCATE – A PERSON WHO EXPRESSES AN OPPOSING OPINION TO START A DEBATE OR TEST THE STRENGTH OF AN ARGUMENT OR LOGIC